DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-4 are recited as "a computer readable medium embodying a method----". This phrase is indefinite since it is not known how the medium can embody a method. It is suggested to use phrase such as "a code (or instructions) for carrying out a method for----".

Claims 1-4 further recites a phrase "the method comprising" in the middle of the claims. It is suggested to change this to "said code including instructions for:".

3. Above changes were discussed with Mr. Kenyon Jenckes on August 30, 2007 and have been agreed upon to make the changes by an Examiner's Amendment in preparing the case for allowance. However, it was noted after the discussion that a terminal Disclaimer is required for this case. An attempt was made to contact Mr. Jenckes to notify him of the change in examiner's position. However, possibly due to a long weekend, examiner could not get in touch with Mr. Jenckes. Thus, this office action serves also as a notification of the change in examiner's position.

Double Patenting

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

5. Claims 1-4 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 of U.S. Patent No. 6,751,206.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the present claims are recited in a form of a computer readable medium embodying the instructions to carry out the method recited in the patented claims. With the method known, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to store the method in a code form in a computer readable medium to implement the method using a computer. Since computer readable medium embodying instructions for carrying out a method is well known in the art, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to utilize the well known computer readable medium to store the methods of patented claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The English patent, the Lopes et al. patent, the Chawla et al. patent, and the Narashimhan et al. patent are cited for further references.
